PRICING

Complete 2018 pricing information for AIP Publishing and AIP Member Society journals

AIP Publishing’s Pricing Philosophy
Over the course of the last few years, AIP Publishing has conducted a comprehensive review of its pricing, packaging, selling, and licensing approach. This has resulted in tighter cost controls on individual journal subscription rates, both online and in print.

We continue to work closely with the library community to maintain low annual price increases; we remain sensitive to the economic pressures facing libraries as well as those faced as society publishers. Backfile pricing is dependent upon the title(s) selected.

Tier Pricing
AIP Publishing’s current tiered pricing model has been established in order to offer equitable prices for online access to institutions of varying size and research intensity and ensure consistent relationships between tiers. Because it is not based on a usage model, it is important to remember that USAGE LEVEL DOES NOT IMPACT PRICE.

Print Pricing
STM publishers are adjusting their pricing models to accommodate the continuing conversion of print subscriptions to online. This shift, while not unexpected, has resulted in price increases in order to maintain a viable print program.

Online + Print Pricing
Consult the 2018 AIP Publishing Institutional Price List

Combination Package Pricing
AIP Publishing offers discounted package pricing. Refer to the sections below on AIP Complete, PoP/PoF/JoR, and the AVS Package and the 2018 AIP Publishing Institutional Price List.

Multi-Year Pricing
The three-year agreement program provides customers with real price stability and predictability. Contact your Sales Manager for more information: +1 516-576-2413, +1 800-344-6902 or sales@aip.org.
LICENSING OPTIONS
AIP Publishing offers single-site, multisite, and consortia licenses. Customers may order directly from AIP Publishing or via recognized agents. The sole agent in Japan is Kinokuniya Company Ltd.

Single Site License
Under the terms of a single-site license, which is contractually obliging, access is granted to authorized users at a localized site (one geographic location) that is under a single administration. No access from remote campuses or remote sites and no consortia or other forms of subscription sharing are allowed under this license.

Multisite License
Under the terms of a multisite license, access is granted to authorized users at multiple sites within an institution as specified in the agreement. A multisite fee applies.

Consortia License
AIP Publishing’s current consortia licensing model takes subscription spend and participating institution size into account. The following types of consortia are eligible:

- Geographic Consortia – Organizations in a specific geographic region or country
- Shared Parent Consortia – University systems that purchase for all of their libraries, major corporations that buy from one location for global access, government departments for use by their sub-departments
- Collective Negotiation Consortia – Groups formed to negotiate together as a single group but then may act individually in their purchasing decisions

UTLs (Unique Title Lists)
Because all members of a specific consortium may not subscribe to the same set of journals, consortia licensing takes cross access into account. This gives users at any member library access to titles licensed by other members, if stipulated by the license. Therefore, a standard component of the consortium agreement is a cross access fee.

Obtain a Quote
To obtain a quote, contact your sales representative or the AIP Publishing Sales Department at +1 516-576-2413 or sales@aip.org.

Trials
30-day free trials of current content are available upon request. Contact your sales representative or the AIP Publishing Sales Department at +1 516-576-2413 or sales@aip.org. Trials are activated within 24-48 hours after set up is completed.
SUBSCRIPTION OPTIONS
Subscription options are flexible so that specific information needs can be accommodated to create the best collection of content for users. License the whole collection, a combination package, selection by publisher, or individual titles.

Online subscriptions to AIP Publishing journals include access from 1999 (or inception if journal launched after 1999) to the current year. There are no gaps between online subscriptions and the AIP Digital Archives (refer to section below).

Accessibility
AIP Publishing is committed to providing Scitation access to the widest possible audience. We have aimed for WCAG 2.0 AA compliance with the Web Accessibility Initiative recommendations (WAI) and compliance with Section 508 Amendment to the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. We strive to maintain compliance as we develop new features and update our displays. Full guidelines on WAI compliance can be found at www.w3.org/WAI.

DIGITAL PRESERVATION
AIP Publishing will retain in an archive all electronic information published by AIP Publishing and AIP Member Societies. The archive will include all AIP Publishing-owned primary publications hosted on Scitation, including multimedia elements of journal articles that have been judged by peer review as being essential to the understanding of the article. Original source materials will not be altered, except in extraordinary cases of production errors or similar situations, in which case there will be a clear record of the change. Source material may be annotated or supplemented by clearly noted errata, references, and other developments that may occur subsequent to original publication.

AIP Publishing will hold a primary source material archive and be responsible for the periodic refresh of this archive (to assure its continuing availability) and its replication to additional archives. The primary source material archive will not be used for active delivery. At least one complete archive will be maintained outside AIP Publishing at a site separate and distant from the primary archive.

AIP Publishing will ensure access to relevant retrospective archives via subscriptions or other means. If publication of a journal is terminated, AIP Publishing will continue to maintain and migrate that journal’s database archive and will charge appropriate access fees.

The archive will be reviewed for refreshing or migration to new information formats at appropriate intervals. The initial archive material will be in the predominant current standard with suitable current standard-based storage formats for figures, page images, and other information forms as they develop. Information will be migrated to new formats when current formats are in danger of becoming obsolete or unsupportable, or when new formats provide substantial improvements in features with no loss of content.

In addition, AIP Publishing has digital preservation agreements in place with Portico and CLOCKSS.
OPEN ACCESS POLICY
AIP Publishing actively supports sustainable models of access that ensure the integrity and permanence of the scholarly record. Open Access options include “Gold” open access, whereby publication is funded by an article processing charge paid by the author or another sponsor, or the hybrid, AIP Author Select®. In both AIP Publishing’s Gold and hybrid options, our authors retain their copyright and publish their work under a Creative Commons license.

AIP Publishing has endorsed and supports the STM statement on Open Access. In accordance with that statement AIP Publishing believes that authors should be able to publish in the journal of their choice, where publication will have the greatest potential to advance their field. Institutions and funders play a key role in ensuring that public access policies allow for funding of peer-reviewed publication and publishing services in whatever journal an author chooses.

AIP Publishing has also endorsed and supports the Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP) directive of 22 February 2013 to federal agencies. This directive, calling for funding agencies to develop plans for increased public access to the results of federally-funded scientific research, aligns with our mission to ensure the widest possible access to the best scientific information while recognizing the need for sustainable business models in scholarly publishing.

AIP Publishing continues to work in tandem with representatives from the library and academic communities to develop pragmatic, sustainable solutions to public access to federally funded research.

AIP Publishing adopts CC BY 4.0 for Open Access articles.

AIP Publishing “Gold” Open Access Journals
Maximizing the value and reuse of the results of scientific research, AIP Publishing’s growing list of peer-reviewed Gold open access journals include:

- AIP Advances
- APL Bioengineering
- APL Materials
- APL Photonics
- Structural Dynamics (in partnership with ACA)

“Green” Open Access
AIP Publishing and the following partner publishers also support Green Open Access:

- Acoustical Society of America
- American Association of Physics Teachers
- AVS: Science and Technology of Materials, Interfaces, and Processing
- Laser Institute of America
- The Society of Rheology

Although individual policies vary by society, most allow authors to self-archive the Version of Record (the final AIP Publishing-prepared version (PDF) of their article) on their own or employer’s website, and post the Author Accepted Manuscript on free-access e-print servers such as arXiv.

ACCESS & ENTITLEMENTS
www.scitation.org
publishing.aip.org/librarians
Permitted Use
Authorized users are permitted unlimited online access to the material licensed and may download, save, or print text, search results, or other information solely for their private use or research. Authorized users may only use this online access in a way that conforms with all applicable laws and regulations.

The Publisher of each AIP Publishing or AIP Member Society online journal grants authorized users permission to use brief quotations from the content of the online journals with the customary acknowledgment of the source, and to copy and transmit content from individual articles in “person-to-person” and non-systematic scholarly exchanges of information between authorized users and specific individuals.

Faculty at subscribing institutions may include articles from the licensed material in anthologies (coursepacks) in print or digital form for their use in connection with classroom instruction or in reserves (print or digital) set up by Consortium libraries for access by authorized users in connection with specific courses. Copies of items in digital form that are included in online coursepacks or reserves will be deleted by the Consortium or its Members after the end of the semester in which the related course concludes.

Altering, recompiling, reselling, publishing, or republishing of any journal text, search result, or other information from the licensed materials, or any portion thereof, in any form or medium, is prohibited.

Institutional Active Subscriber Access
Usage rights of active institutional subscribers will be governed by the terms of the then current Subscriber Agreement, a signed copy of which must be on file. A subscription fee for the current term must also have been paid. Distribution to parties beyond that defined in the Subscriber Agreement may be permitted upon explicit agreement with AIP Publishing. Additional rights may be provided to institutions purchasing extended access methods.

Institutional Post-Cancellation Access
Upon request and approval, institutional subscribers who do not renew any publications available from AIP Publishing will continue to have online access to the content (published from 1999-present) for which they held a paid subscription to that title. Customers with no current paid subscriptions may retain online access to such previously subscribed material for an annual fee; there is no fee for customers with a current paid subscription to any AIP Publishing journal. This policy does not apply to the backfile included with a current-year subscription unless the subscriber held a paid subscription to that title for the year(s) in question; nor does it apply to any year prior to 1999.
Interlibrary Loan
AIP Publishing-prepared electronic article files may not be transmitted in their original digital form to any other institution or to a non-Authorized user. A hard copy printed from the electronic files of the journal(s) may be supplied to another institution by mail or fax or secure transmission using Ariel or its equivalent, whereby the electronic file is deleted immediately after printing, provided the institution is not-for-profit and within the same country as the Subscriber. The supply of such copies must conform to CONTU guidelines or similar restrictions to "fair use" provisions under copyright law.

Copyright
AIP Publishing and the AVS now allow authors to retain copyright to their articles. Authors sign an exclusive license to publish agreement that grants the publisher the necessary rights it needs to publish and disseminate the work. Other Member Societies hold full copyright to the content published in their journals. Please refer to the individual articles for notice of copyright ownership. All content is subject to the applicable copyright, database protection, and other rights of the stated owner and Publisher under the laws of the United States and other countries. Unauthorized copying or redistribution of any licensed content is a violation of copyright laws. Copyright notices may not be removed, obscured, or modified in any way.

Creative Commons License
(AIP Advances, APL Bioengineering, APL Materials, APL Photonics, Structural Dynamics, Author Select Articles)
Authors publishing articles using the AIP Author Select® option, and authors publishing in AIP Advances, APL Bioengineering, APL Materials, APL Photonics, and Structural Dynamics, retain their copyright and agree to license their work under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.
